Dear Dad,

Thank you for your letter, and for the Christmas presents. I was very happy to receive them.

Christmas is very different to Canada here. It's summer, so the weather is really hot! People wear summer clothes, and go to the beach on Christmas Day. My host family are really nice, but their family is from India, so they don't celebrate Christmas. I spent Christmas Day morning with them, and I gave them some presents and played some Christmas music to them. They were interested in my stories about Christmas in Canada, with all the snow we have. In the afternoon, I went to my friend Tim's house, and his family were having a big Christmas dinner. However, they didn't eat the same food as us - they had a BBQ and salad and ice-cream! I was surprised. Then Tim's father dressed as Santa, and we sang Christmas songs, like we do at home in Canada.

New Year's Eve was interesting, too. My host family had a party and we watched the fireworks from their house at midnight. We ate delicious Indian food and then next day, we went to the beach to swim and play.

I will call you and Mom soon!

Love from Eric

A Rare Sound

The singing of birds is a beautiful sound of nature. The country of New Zealand has a lot of birds, and many people can hear birdsong every day. Very few New Zealanders, however, get the chance to hear the sound of their national bird, the kiwi.

Before people arrived in New Zealand, the loud, scratchy call of the kiwi filled the forests. Kiwi live on the ground. They eat worms and make their homes on the forest floor. The kiwi started to die out when people and animals came. Kiwi are the size of a chicken and they are very easy birds to catch. They can't fly and they don't run far. Their large eggs are good to eat, also.

These days, people don't eat kiwi or their eggs, but animals do. The first people brought rats and dogs with them. Later people brought cats and possums. Then, in the 1880s, people brought stoats. Stoats kill many kiwi.

The New Zealand government wants to look after the kiwi. They made projects to put some kiwi on safe islands and some kiwi in safe forest parks. Those kiwi are doing well, but kiwi numbers are dropping. Then, in 2016, the government made a big plan. They want to make all of New Zealand safe for the kiwi by 2050. That means every rat, possum and stoat must go. Can they really kill so many animals? Will the kiwi call become a common sound again? In thirty-one years, we will listen and see.

Q1) The number of kiwi birds

- A) started high and then went up more.
- B) started high and then went down.
- C) started low and then went up.
- D) started low and then went down more.

Q2) What did people do to help the kiwi?

- C) They brought more animals into New Zealand.
- D) They killed all the animals that eat the kiwi.

Q3) What do kiwi eat?

Q4) Why are kiwi easy to catch?

Q5) Why does the government want to kill rats, possums and stoats?
