The First Coffee

Where did the drink, coffee, come from? We know that coffee plants grow wild in Africa in a country called Ethiopia. We also know that people in Yemen drank coffee over 500 years ago. However, no one knows where drinking coffee first started.

One story says that drinking coffee started in Ethiopia. One day, a man saw some goats eating some berries from some trees. The goats started jumping and playing, but they didn't get tired. The man tried the berries. Soon, he started to feel happy and excited. He took some berries back to his town. The people of the town put the berries into hot water, and they started to smell a very good smell. They drank the water, and it was very good. The name of the town was Kaffa, so this became the name of the new drink.

The country of Yemen has a different story. One day, a man from Yemen was traveling around Ethiopia. He was tired, so he sat down under a tree. He saw some birds eating some berries. The birds were full of energy, so the man tried the berries. He felt his energy come back. Those berries were coffee cherries. He took the coffee cherries back to Yemen, and people there started drinking coffee, so they did not get sleepy at long events.

Coffee drinking started early in Ethiopia and Yemen. Now, we can find coffee farms in over 70 countries, and we can find coffee lovers everywhere!

No. 14 In the first story, what strange thing did the man see?

- A) He saw red goats.
- B) He saw a new drink.
- C) He saw excited animals.
- D) He saw coffee lovers everywhere.

No. 15 In the first story, where did the people of the town put the berries?

- A) In the fire.
- B) In the bread.
- C) Under a tree.
- D) Into hot water.

No. 16 In the first story, why did people name the new drink Kaffa?

No. 17 In the second story, why did the man from Yemen sit under a tree?

No. 18 What did people in Yemen do not to become sleepy at long events?

TOPIC

Which do you like better, talking with your friends or talking with your family?
Answer the question and give TWO reasons. You must write 25 words or more.

I like talking with my friends better than talking with my family. I have two reasons for this. First, my friends have the same interests as me, so I can talk about my favorite TV shows, music and anime with them. Second, my family are very busy, and we usually only have time to talk at dinner.

I can talk to my friends at school and by video call anytime. Because of these reasons, I like talking to my friends better.
