The Life of a Butterfly

Butterflies are beautiful animals that change during their life. This change is called metamorphosis*, it has four steps: egg, larva*, pupa*, and adult. Each step is important for the butterfly's life.

Their life begins when a female butterfly lays eggs on the leaves of a plant. These small eggs become larvae*, also known as caterpillars*. Caterpillars spend most of their time eating leaves and growing. This step is important because the caterpillar needs to get enough energy to enter the next step.

After becoming a large size, the caterpillar makes a pupa, also called a chrysalis*. Inside the chrysalis, the caterpillar changes a lot. It grows wings and other adult parts. This change can take days or weeks.

Finally, the adult butterfly comes out from the chrysalis. At first, its wings are soft and wet, but after some time, they dry and become hard, then the butterfly can fly. Adult butterflies get food from flowers and then lay eggs of their own.

It is important to protect butterflies because this will help protect the biodiversity* of our environment.
